Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.

"I had my back hurt to the bone for two years ago. I was in San Francisco and in the same place. I tried all kinds of things without success. I saw your advertisement in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application gave me instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."

DAVID A. WELLS

the famous free trader, once told a friend, "If I had left my money in the Savings Bank I would be worth a great deal more."

Evidently he made some investments that did not turn out profitably. Thousands upon thousands have had the same experience. Mr. Wells probably had an acquaintance with as many men of affairs in his day as any citizen of the country, so if he would have been "worth a great deal more," isn't it a good plan for you to leave your money in the savings bank.

This bank solicits deposits and guarantees the depositors a safe, sane and conservative management, according to the law.

Savings banks can only invest in such securities as stipulated by law.

MRS. SWIFT'S WILL

Probated Friday—Codicils Modify Earlier Provisions—Bequests to Relatives.

Friday in the probate court before Judge James A. Shea the will of Maria M. Swift was admitted to probate. The instrument names Frederick E. Judd of Southampton, Mass., as executor. The will was made in 1906. Codicils have been added, the last one in 1910, that changed many of the original terms of the will. The value of the property is not known and will not be until it has been appraised.

It gives Mary Jane Bowden of this city, a daughter of the deceased, $1,000, and to another daughter, the late Emily M. F. Fenton, mother of Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, $500. To Frank P. Fenton, a grandson, $100, and to Sarah J. Olds, a granddaughter, $100. To Mary J. Bowden she gave a parcel of real estate with house on High street, as well as a building lot and all the rest and residue she gave to Mary J. Bowden and Emily M. Fenton. A later codicil changed the will somewhat, and in this she gave her grandson, Reuben H. Bowden, $100, and also $100 to Frederick Fenton, another grandson. This codicil also changed the gift of the building lot to Mary J. Bowden so that it will be divided equally between the children of Anson J. Olds, and all her former and current things contained in her home are given to Sarah J. Olds for her use during her life, and then they are to go to Mrs. Olds' children.

After the will had been received, S. Arnold Peckham and A. C. Scripture were appointed appraisers.

These particular boxes are already in use in more than any others in the city. Letters would fall to the ground when the carrier came around to make collections from these boxes.

Block Crosswalks.

Teams from the country continue to persist in stopping along Main street in front of the crosswalks and make it very inconvenient for pedestrians to cross the street. This is particularly true in the case of the crosswalk at the head of Railroad street, where the horse-drawn teams have been warned against the bad habit, but it is continued.

State Agents Examine Water Courses.

Two men, said to be from the office of the state chemist at New Haven, were in this vicinity looking over a number of the water courses. They visited the Willimantic river and the Hop river. On the former they let down a length of yarn, at the White bridge near the Columbia road, which was attached a sinker. They did likewise on the Hop river, at what is known as the Safford Pond bridge. They said that the yarn would absorb any contaminating substance that might be in the water, and from an analysis of the saturated yarn it could be determined just what contaminating substances might exist.

They were conducting their examinations with a view to ascertaining whether the water of these two rivers would be suitable for drinking purposes. All inquiries today failed to reveal that anyone interested in Willimantic's water supply for domestic use is in any way concerned in the work that these men from the state laboratory are doing in this vicinity.

THE TAMED NUTHATCHES.

An Experience With Old and Young Birds—How the Presence of a Hawk Affects Them—Their Habits, Etc.

My most interesting experiences with the birds during the past summer was with the baby nuthatches. "Lady," the female of the pair of tame nuthatches, was not seen at the window after April 24th until May 24th. "Nuttie" continued to appear at the window before, and sometimes at my hand, which he had not usually done in summer. Soon after her return, I saw her sitting on the window daily and conversed with Nuttie in low and to me, unfamiliar tones.

On the 20th of June I heard a similar note when in the yard, and soon noticed a female nuthatch, when perched three feet from the ground, on a pear tree. I stood within six feet and watched as it walked up and down and examined the contents of its beak. From which it occasionally picked a tiny beetle. Twice it caught an ant, but threw it away, evidently not liking anything so spicy. Once it found a little worm, which it rattled around in its beak. When I stepped nearer it walked up the tree and flew away.

THE BLACKLISTING LAW.

Fine Imposed in Hartford Case Goes to Supreme Court—Text of the Warrant Issued.

Charles H. Lay, secretary of the Manufacturers' association of Hartford county, with headquarters at No. 312 Capitol avenue, was fined $50 in the police court by Judge Steele for violation of the "blacklisting law," passed at the session of the last general assembly, says the Hartford Times.

Attorney Ralph O. Wells, who appeared for Mr. Lay, filed notice of demurrer when the case was first called. The demurrer was overruled, and Judge Steele imposed the lowest fine allowed by the law. Notice of an appeal was filed immediately by Mr. Wells, who asked that Mr. Lay be released on his own recognizance.

Judge Steele found that such a procedure would be impossible under the law and named a nominal cash bond of $50.

"We admit the facts in the case, and we wish to make the case a test one, so that it may be carried through the superior to the supreme court so that it may be determined whether or not the 'blacklist law' is constitutional," said Mr. Wells.

The manufacturers of Hartford county object to making their records public, especially concerning the "blacklist," which is alleged to be force, whereby an employer is discharged by one company for any reason, finds that he cannot secure employment with any other firm.

The warrant for Mr. Lay's arrest was issued by Attorney Edwin C. Dickinson, on a complaint received from Commissioner of Labor P. H. Connolly.

It reads as follows: "Charles H. Lay, being the secretary and agent and a member of the Manufacturers' association of Hartford county, an association conducted for the purpose, among others, of preserving and furnishing to its members information, description of their character, skill, acts, and affiliations of persons whereby their standing in trade, reputation and ability to secure employment may be affected and having in his custody as such secretary a record of such information, did neglect and refuse to furnish the names of the members of such association, together with the names of its officers and such other information as is required by chapter 163 of the public acts of 1911 to be furnished."

Paint and "Paint."

Paint itself costs $1.10 per gallon—but remember that Lead Oil costs $1.10 per gallon, and that "Paint" ready for use consists of 4 parts Paint and 3 parts Oil. Consequently it is plain that you should use Paint and Oil separately, and not "Paint" itself, and save 50 cents per gallon. Therefore use 12 1/2 lbs. of Paint and 3 1/2 lbs. of Oil, and you will get 15 lbs. of "Paint" ready for use at $1.10 a gallon.

drink from a little dish of water kept on the window sill, but I never saw either of the females notice it. They were very busy in their search for food. The thicket that lighted on the screen was seen and caught if possible. One day one tried unsuccessfully several times to put a piece of nut in a square of the netting. July 6 was the last time I saw them at all. I suppose the parents told them away and left them to learn by experience all the things that a little wild bird needs to know.

Nuttie continued to come to the window for food; but Lady was a very irregular visitor for three or four weeks. They came only a few times in a day and did not often eat from my hand until about the middle of October when they began to come more times daily, and again became tame. Then came misfortune to Lady, who was missing on November 6th. I think she must have been caught by a cat or hawk for she seemed well the day before. About a week after she disappeared one of the young females came back and in a few days a young male appeared. The former stayed sixteen days, the latter a little over a month. They only ate from my hand a very few times, but were much more fearless when at the window than birds which have never been tamed. I do not know what happened to the little female, Old Nuttie, who acts as if he owned the earth, quarreled with the male and I suppose drove him away. Twelve times when I have
